

PROJECT-BASED LEARNING ENDORSEMENT

THREE COURSE SERIES

The Project-Based Learning (PBL) Endorsement is designed to recognize the knowledge, skills, and expertise resulting from a three-course series of PBL courses.

AVAILABLE SPRING 2017 MTLA 671: INTRODUCTION TO PROJECT-BASED LEARNING

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course is designed to introduce students to the theory behind PBL that supports student attainment of core academic content. The course demonstrates 21st Century skills necessary for success including personal agency, critical/analytic thinking, collaboration, communication, and technological proficiency.

Course Dates: January 11, 2017 – May 5, 2017

Course Format: hybrid (on-line and several face-to-face sessions)

Instructor: Dr. mutindi ndunda Email: ndundam@cofc.edu

HOW TO SIGN UP

Register at <http://gradschool.cofc.edu/about-us/index.php>

Tuition: $1,566 for three-credit course

College of Charleston vouchers accepted as payment.

INTERESTED IN A MASTERS DEGREE?

The courses in Project-Based Learning are accepted within the Curriculum and Instruction Concentration of the College of Charleston's Masters in Teaching, Learning, and Advocacy (MTLA). The MTLA program prepares teachers to be leaders and advocates within schools and districts. The PBL courses constitute nine of 36 credit hours toward the masters.

For more information:

<http://teachered.cofc.edu/grad-progs/mtla.php>

Dr. Christine Finnan

MTLA Program Director

843-953-4826

finnanc@cofc.edu